

TORREON'S FALL HASTENS DOOM OF HUERTA'S RULE

CRUCIAL BATTLE OF PRESENT REVOLUTION ENDS WITH FEDERALS IN FLIGHT.

FIGHT HARD FOR WEEK NORTH BOWS TO VILLA

Over Two Thousand Lives is Estimated Toll of Fierce Struggle Between Opposing Factions in Mexico.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Torreon, (Via Gomez, Palatio) April 2.—This city, strewn with the dead and wounded of a six days' battle, was occupied by the rebels last night on the heels of the fleeing federals.

In all the fighting no foreigner was killed or injured. The taking of the city marks the climax of the first campaign of the revolution to oust Victoriano Huerta from the presidential castle in the city of Mexico. It gives the constitutionalists virtual control over the whole northern tier of Mexican states.

After Week's Battle.

The fighting here began last Friday and was almost continuous. At first Villa attempted assaults on the strong federal positions in daylight, but those proved costly and were abandoned. The night attacks and the nights in assaults.

Positions were taken and lost, time and again. Several night attacks sent the federals scurrying from strong positions, but they were compelled to abandon them by the strength and accuracy of the enemy's artillery fire, much of which is said to have been directed by French and German gunners. Villa believes the federals had fortified themselves with machine guns, but roughly General Villa estimates his own losses at 500 killed and 1,500 wounded, and the federal loss at 1,000 dead and 2,500 wounded, with an unknown number of prisoners. Villa believes the federals have lost their cavalry is pursuing to the south, forms but a remnant of the federal force whose loss, he says, probably is close to being total. All the subordinate generals have not yet reported, however, and until they do just how many were captured cannot be accurately stated.

Details of Fighting.

The battle line was four miles long and the field was determined by three great hills formed like a carpenter's square at either end of which lay the towns of Gomez Palatio and Torreon. The federals had fortified the hill with rifle pits, trenches and barb wire entanglements. The nature of the ground made it difficult to recover the wounded and many of them died of thirst, hunger or lack of attention where they lay.

Artillery was used in rescue work, but they could not ascend the hillsides. Along the bases of the hills ran the railroad tracks and in this field the battle was fought.

Struggle in the Hills.

On the hill south of Gomez Palatio, west of Torreon, it raged with great fury on the Canon de Cuarcache where the federals made their last desperate stand, and from where they were finally driven, followed by a column of Villa's horses.

The opposing forces were about equal in number, probably 10,000 on a side.

Twice the rebels took two of the hills only to lose them, but all the time the attack was becoming more formidable as the soldiers attacking from all sides except the west fired from house to house, drew the circle around the enemy.

Countless small encounters occurred about the streets over the possession of some favored roofs, but dominating all was the roar and thunder of the cannon.

Used Armored Trains.

Both sides used armored trains. These with big guns mounted would suddenly appear around an elbow of one of the hills, discharge a broadside and then retire. Early in the attack on Gomez Palatio they happened on the hill at the same time and a lively exchange of shots ensued like a naval engagement on land.

The federals made use of huge rockets which were shot to a great height, exploding in the air and letting down a hail of buckshot.

On the fourth day of the fight the intense suffering from heat and thirst was relieved by a rain thought to have been brought on by the heavy fighting.

In the course of the week the federal reinforcements from Monterrey were approaching on the east. General Herreras was sent against them and later reported that he has sent them scurrying into the hills.

Federals Claim Victory.

Washington, April 3.—The Mexican embassy here today still claimed victory for the federal forces at Torreon. Charges Alcala today gave out this statement:

"An official dispatched signed by the secretary of foreign affairs, Senor Porfirio Rojas, has just been received at the embassy giving an account of the crushing defeat of the rebel forces under Villa at Torreon."

Gen. Maas, who left Saltillo several days ago, has arrived at Torreon. Gen. De la Mora's column has reached San Pedro de las Colonias, where a decisive defeat was administered to a rebel force sent out to oppose his advance.

The government also succeeded in raising a loan of over fifty million pesos which will materially assist it in its tireless efforts toward pacification.

Madison, Wis., April 3.—District attorneys of Wisconsin are being asked in a circular by the vice investigating committee of the legislature to give the cause of the non-enforcement of laws on moral questions to remedy this condition. A score or more of questions bearing on vice conditions are propounded to the prosecutors. Most of them have to do with violations of the moral law. The committee asks what per cent of the girls complained against went wrong through dances, drink, deceit, or other cause; what per cent appeared unattractive, etc. The number of houses of ill fame, if any, their location, number of inmates, complaints against prosecutions of, and other information also are wanted.

Other questions are:

"Does the prevailing sentiment uphold the strict enforcement of the moral laws? If not, can you suggest any remedy for existing immoral conditions?"

"Are girls and women permitted to frequent saloons and wineries? In your judgment what effect has that upon their morals? Should girls and women be permitted to frequent saloons and wineries? If so, under what conditions?"

"Should the age of consent be raised to 18, or 21 years?"

"What would you suggest might be done to secure the enforcement of laws which prohibit the sale of liquor to minors?"

"Are saloons open on Sunday in your county? If so, what laws are enforced against liquor to minors?"

"Are licenses thereupon revoked by municipal authorities? Is the penalty of the saloonkeeper's bonds collected in such cases? Do you have any other suggestions to make to the legislature?"

"Should the evidence to you, in all criminal cases before your office will act?"

BELIEVE ALL HANDS ON STEAMER CROSS LOST IN BLIZZARD

Government Investigation of Wireless Report Causes Shipmen to Abandon Hope for Ship and 170 Men.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Johns, N. F., April 3.—There was growing apprehension today that the sealing steamer Southern Cross, which was reported to have been heavily loaded with 17,000 seal-skins, had been lost in the blizzard which swept the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Hope for the safety of the vessel based on a dispatch from Sidney, N. S., which stated that a wireless message had been received there reporting the arrival of the Southern Cross, was abandoned at noon when the government, after several hours' inquiry, declared the Sidney report untrue.

The captain's message follows: "Have just reached steamer Southern Cross and checked cargo by list roster. Find she had 189 total crew. Of these 132 are safe, but 35 are on the sick list. Total dead 77, of which 69 bodies recovered. Remaining eight lost amid fog."

According to the report, the vessel was proceeding to St. Johns, N. F., and was heavily and tight. She was also carrying a large quantity of seal-skins, which were reported to be lost.

DR. WILEY REFUSES ADVANCE IN RATES IS PLAIN ROBBERY

Wisconsin Secures Testimony of Pure Food Expert Gratis in Corn Syrup Case.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 3.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who has spent nearly two weeks in Madison assisting the state dairy and food department in the corn syrup labeling case, refused to charge a cent for his services. Actual expenses only were paid. Dr. Wiley said he was so much interested in the cause of pure food for the people of the nation that he was not disposed to capitalize his knowledge of chemistry and foods in a case like this. It is said Dr. Wiley's services are worth $100 per day. He left last night for his home in Washington.

Upon the conclusion of his testimony yesterday afternoon, Dr. Wiley E. Frear, director of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Experiment Station, and chief of the division of the American Association of Agricultural Chemists, took the stand for the state. He continued today, and will be followed by Dr. Richard Fisher, chief of the division of the Dairy and Food Commissioner of the state. The Corn Product company has several more witnesses, and testimony will be taken until the case is closed. The case may not end until late next week.

ADVANCE IN RATES SUGGESTS SUBSTITUTE OF MONROE DOCTRINE WITH PEACE POLICY

So Says Senator La Follette in Another Severe Arraignment of Railroads.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 3.—"In order that big manufacturers and the big merchants may hold fast to the graft which they have with the railroads, an organized campaign has for weeks been carried on by manufacturers' associations, chambers of commerce and combinations of shipper's associations, urging United States senators and members of congress to use the influence of their position upon the interstate commerce commission to induce it to take $50,000 a year out of the pockets of the people in higher freight rates."

This statement is made by Senator La Follette today in discussing "A Raid on the Interstate Commerce Commission," which he introduced to interfere with the course of justice before this tribunal should be made "punishable by fine and imprisonment under a strong federal statute." He calls upon congress "to act."

Senator La Follette tells of banquets that are now being held at Washington by railroad presidents to influence the decision of the commission, and says that the newspapers have opened a vicious attack on the members of the commission because they proceed "in an orderly and lawful manner to take the testimony which will enable them to make a just and honest decision in this important case." He adds that "no such disgraceful spectacle has ever before been witnessed."

Mad Through Probe.

The commission has prosecuted its work with great diligence and thoroughness, continues the senator. "In fact, it is suspected that it has been so diligent that it has brought to light the fact that the railroads have already discovered that the carriers have given free services to certain big shippers amounting to fifteen or twenty millions of dollars annually. It is hot on the trail of free services to other big ones which may in the aggregate, far exceed the fifty millions—the amount the railroad claims they require to make revenue adequate to their expenses."

"The big shippers are determined to retain these prices. The railroads are more than willing to continue them, if they can get all of the money they want out of the public. Are these two wonderful interests have united to compel the commission to stop its investigating?"

ADVANCE IN RATES SUGGESTS SUBSTITUTE OF MONROE DOCTRINE WITH PEACE POLICY

Rear Admiral Chester Claims: Opposite Not Modern and Nation Should Form 'Concert of Action.'

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, April 3.—A "concert of action" among American Republics in defense of the principle of "America for the Americans" as a substitute for the manner in which the Monroe Doctrine is enforced today by Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester in a speech here today before the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"A distinct and far-reaching principle are laid down in the Monroe Doctrine," he said. "The first is the principle of 'self-defense.' The second is that South American Republics, which followed our lead in enforcing their own rights, should have our protection in maintaining this doctrine for themselves."

"The first principle is axiomatic and immutable, and all other considerations must give way to it. The second is amendable to changes in circumstances, and will bring it into accord with new conditions that arise. The question now is, therefore, do the same conditions prevail on the western continent today that existed at the time President Monroe issued his message to congress in 1823?"

"We should remember that the South American Republics were in their infancy at the time the Monroe Doctrine was declared, and were struggling against great odds to establish their independence. They were without her aid the newly formed republics were helpless to battle against the great powers of the world."

"The question today, so far as our own national defense is concerned, is would it be a menace to interests centered so far away as the United States if a European power, whose political and social system is entirely different from ours, should attempt to acquire territory in Argentina for instance? Such an assault would, of course, affect the interests of that country. But the United States should not interfere in the matter unless asked by Argentina to aid her in throwing off the menace that assailed her?"

"Leading statesmen of Brazil and other South American Republics have declared that the Monroe Doctrine is discarded in the republics for whose benefit it was devised, not that they do not appreciate the good intentions of the United States, but they deny the right of the United States to enforce the doctrine founded upon the principle laid down by James Monroe, but giving the right of a protectorate to the powers in general and not to any country in particular. The Monroe Doctrine, the belief of the people of Latin America."

"We cannot, however, with propriety form an alliance for that which is based upon an unwritten law of the land."

"Let us form then a concert of action after the principles of the Monroe Doctrine, which is the principle of 'America for the Americans,' which will probably better please our conferees in the south and at the same time give effect to the general principle of our doctrine."

"But there is a field in which the interests of the United States should not be shared with any other nation. The speaker alluded to the Caribbean Sea or Gulf of Mexico. The right of the United States to protect these countries from foreign aggression has been called for, and accepted so many times, as to establish this policy of the American people as an inalienable right," he said.

"In defending the Continental Policy of America for the Americans, the United States will have the advantage of being an efficient Navy and she will need every ship that our non-military country will authorize to be constructed."

All short mileage heretofore will be abolished.

An illustration of the effect of this change is as follows:

Persons traveling from Madison, Wis., to Appleton, Wis., by way of Milwaukee will pay a larger fare than if going by way of Jefferson Junction and Fond du Lac.

HURLS CRITICISM AT NEW ADMINISTRATION

Major Gillette, Who is in Mexico, is Strongly Opposed to Tolls and Waiting Policies.

[BY WINFIELD JONES.]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—Major Cassius E. Gillette, former engineer officer in the United States army and former chief of the Philadelphia Bureau of Philanthropy, who has been named by the Wilson administration to be the United States representative to the Panama canal commission, in an interview given out here severely "roasts" the Wilson administration's policy on free tolls and the Mexican "watchful waiting" policy. Major Gillette has lived for ten years in Mexico, is heavily interested in mining properties in the republic, and is perhaps better posted on Mexico and the Mexican situation than any other American. Major Gillette says:

"Repeat of the free tolls law is Wilson's effort to keep Great Britain good natured while the United States lets English lives and English blood be destroyed in Mexico along with American lives and American blood."

"This disgraceful 'watchful waiting' policy is nothing more than an underhanded attempt to overturn the one plank in his party's platform."

HALL & HUEBEL
Sport Snap Shots

By Morris Miller.
Willie Ritchie recently said that he aspires to be a regular sure-enough knockout, one of the sort that puts over a lean k. o. every time he enters the ring and has the fear and reverence of all of his adversaries. Willie admits that thus far in his career as a title holder he has not spread the horror and dismay among his class that he might have and in future bouts he is going to carry on in such a way that few will care to joust with him. It is such to be, it's a cinch that Willie will have to best himself and get a hurry on to many fast and clever claimants are howling at heels that he will. Willie doesn't acquire a punch to help in a pinch he will find another waltzing away with the title. Get busy there, Willie.

FISHERMEN WAITING FOR TROUT SEASON

Open Season for Brook Trout is Twelve Days Away—Local is Sportmen Look Over Their Tackle.
Janesville fishermen are now looking over their fishing tackle in preparation for the spring season. Many are planning for excursions to the trout streams as soon as the season opens on April 15.

Trout is the first of the game fish found in the waters of Wisconsin that can be legally taken. The open season for all game fish except trout, under the Wisconsin laws, begins on April 30—Memorial day. Until that date the disciple of Walton is compelled to confine himself to the speckled or brook trout.

But to the lover of the rod and fly this is no hardship. There are many fishermen in Janesville who will declare that there is no fish offering more sport than the brook trout. It is wise, gamy, delicious when prepared for the table. And he can be found in hundreds of streams in easy reach of the city. Many a brook has meandered through meadow and woodland for years, a stream unfished until some chance cast of the fly has revealed that it was filled with trout. There are streams in Sauk county, in Brown, in Waushara, in Grant, in Adams and in the counties in the northern part of the state that are alive with trout. And the law permits a man a good day's sport—forty-five to a basket—of one more—over a foot less than six inches may mean a fine of from $10 to $25 or a term of from ten to thirty days in jail.

Catfish Now Protected.
Under the laws of the state one more fish has been placed under the protection of the law—the humble catfish. Just as the once despised mudpooter and helldiver have become game birds and are as safe from the sportsman as his handsome brother, the mallard or canvasback, so has the catfish become recognized as "game." The catfish now is given equal protection with bass and muskellunge. It can be taken only in the same manner as other game fish and at the same time he is protected by the same menacing fine and the same threat of a term in jail for the man who "boils" for him out of season.

MISS POPE WEDDED TO CHARLES SMITH

Popular Janesville Girl United in Marriage to Charles Arthur Smith Last Evening.
At eight-fifteen last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pope, residing at 475 North Main street, was celebrated the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Pope, to Charles Arthur Smith. The Rev. Joseph Chalmers Hazen read the service, using the ring ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated in green and white and the wedding was solemnized beneath an archway of flowers and festoons. Miss Pope formerly was employed at the Bestwick store and was very popular among the young set of the town. She wore a charming gown of white embroidered voile and carried a bridal bouquet of sweet peas and ferns. Her sister, Miss Elsie Pope of St. Paul attended her. Charles Smith of Darlington was best man. Sixty guests were present at the ceremony and a bridal banquet, which was held later in the evening.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a short wedding trip to Rockford and Chicago before making their home on Mr. Smith's farm in the town of Harmony. Among the beautiful presents given was a linen set from the employees of the Bestwick store. Among the out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope of Darlington; Miss Elsie Pope, St. Paul, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hauenstein of St. Paul; Mrs. Clara Gifford and daughter, Ruth and Florence of Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Darling of Edgerton; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. E. Lloyd of Shullsburg, Wisconsin.

M'ADOO'S DECISION CLEARS UP PROBLEM

Relation of State Banks to Federal Reserve Membership is Explained.
Secretary McAdoo in his capacity as chairman of the reserve bank organization committee, has construed, or interpreted favorably to the banks, an important section in the regulations prescribing conditions under which state banks and trust companies may become members of federal reserve banks. In those regulations issued on Feb. 20 was one which was taken by state bankers to mean they would be obliged to cease making loans on real estate and to devote their business in loans and investments in accordance with the national banking act. Such a regulation would mean the abandonment of lines of business in which the state banks are now engaged.

The regulation was designated the "tenth" as follows:
"State banks or trust companies applying for membership in the federal reserve system under section 13 of the federal reserve act, by conversion into national banking associations, or applying for membership under section nine as state banks, will, if otherwise eligible, be given a reasonable time in which to adjust the loans and investments of such banks to conform with the requirements of the federal reserve act and other laws of the United States applicable thereto."

"Any bank applying for membership and having loans to any one person, firm or corporation in excess of the limit allowed by the federal reserve act to any one person, shall be prohibited by such act shall before being admitted to membership, give satisfactory assurance to the committee or to the federal reserve board that such loans and investments will be eliminated or reduced to conform with the provisions of the federal reserve act and other applicable laws not later than Jan. 1, 1915."

The construction placed upon the foregoing by some of the banks was such that if correct would require them from entering the federal reserve system. This was brought to the attention of Secretary McAdoo and under date of March 31, the following letter has been received from him: "A local trust company, to whom I beg to advise that the regulation to which you refer was intended to deal primarily with excessive loans; that is to say, loans in excess of 10 per cent of capital and surplus of any applying bank made to any one person, firm, or corporation, and to loans made by an applying bank on the security of its own stock. It is not the intention of the committee to impose any unreasonable burden upon state banks by requiring their membership and a compliance with the provisions of the act and of the particular section referred to should not be construed as an undue hardship upon such banks."

ORATORY IS DIVIDED INTO TWO SECTIONS

Lovejoy Medal Will be Given for Original Speeches, While Another is Offered to Others.
The original purpose of the Lovejoy medal for oratory, which has been the basis for producing orators at the Janesville high school during the past number of years, will be lived up to more stringently from now on, beginning with this spring's contest. When the medal was offered the prize for oratory a number of years ago, it was offered with the intention that the competitors who entered be obliged to write their own oration from a subject with which they were familiar, or were particularly interested in. This form worked out until the past few years, when orators began to learn speeches given by some great man, or copied articles from books having a flow of good oratory in them.

For the purpose of giving the students in the high school a chance to display their talent in the oratorical line, Prin. Buell and Prof. Shaefer have discriminated a bit, and will hold another contest in oratory, apart from the one in which the Lovejoy medal is the prize. A prize will also be awarded to the winner in this contest. In reality such a contest may be called a declamatory contest. The contestants will have the fighting tooth and nail for his own opinion of the liquor question. The election next Tuesday, which a month ago appeared devoid of any particular interest, has really assumed as much importance as will the September primaries; in fact more so to the local resident.

USELESS TWADDLE.

The anti-Wilson democratic press are indulging in all sorts of useless abuse of the president and his demand that the Panama canal toll measure be repealed. Was it not that the animus of their spite was understood they might have some effect upon the country at large. As it is they only are battering their heads against a stone wall while the measure will pass to victory in the senate after more useless debates by ambitious senators who seek personal glorification.

Why not exploit Janesville as a summer resort, call attention to the beautiful stretches of shores up the river and attract summer resorters and cottagers to this garden spot of southern Wisconsin?

Already horsemen are planning their spring and summer campaigns and the Janesville track promises to be a most popular resort for men with good horse flesh from all parts of the country.

LaFollette is coming back to the state to look the situation over for himself just as soon as the canal toll measure is out of the way in the senate. Something doing after that. Watch the bulletin boards.

Have you planned for that garden when the weather gets warm enough to work out of doors? If not, best make haste for the robins are here and would like some nice, juicy fat worms for their breakfast.

The wet and dry question is assuming great importance these days and the fight promises to be a merry one throughout the whole county. In time it will be a national issue brought about by a campaign of education.

Selection of a commissioner for Janesville appears to be bothering a lot of voters. It is safe to say there are surprises in store for some who thought it a cut and dried affair.

The man who figured that his coal was going to last him through the present cold weather had better take another look. It snowed for a few minutes today.

Reports from nearby lakes is that the ice is rapidly vanishing. Fortunately that there was enough to have next summer's supply out at any rate.

If you do not vote next Tuesday you should not complain on who is elected or what issues are passed or turned down.

As one small boy said, "Spring has come!" when he exhibited a broken finger from the first practice of the "Back Lot Warblers."

Remember the slogan, "Swat the fly!" and start in on the game early in the year so as to be sure and be on the safe side.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor:

At the election on April 7, 1914, I think it is the duty of every citizen to well consider the future of Janesville before they cast their vote. One important thing to look at is who is behind the idea of voting the town dry. Whether they have ever had business experience or are they good financiers, and would their position in life give them good financial education of the city to compete with the good, sound business men of our city who didn't take the pains of getting before the public to discuss it. The principal business men of our city who are not liquor dealers at all are against making the town dry because they have considered the record of growth of other cities which are the principal trade centers of the United States which have always been wet. For instance the cities of Chicago, Milwaukee, or take any of the principal cities. Did they reach that growth when they were wet or dry? As for getting better order in the town by voting the town dry, we must first consider what the cost would be for convicting "blind pigs," moonshiners of all descriptions where the temptation would be great for this kind of work in a dry town. The city of Evansville has had some experience in this line. We find from the court records they were selling it over there for as much as three or four years before they could get the high kind of evidence to convict. Therefore, the citizens of Janesville should let well enough alone. Talk about filling up the vacant stores left where the saloons were! Where are all these ever-ready business men who are going to step in and build up an established business? Some of the prominent members of this "dry" question were not satisfied when they found out they could not shut the nickel theaters up on a Sunday afternoon when the people have worked all week and wanted a little entertainment on a Sunday afternoon. To dry up the town means to dry up the doings on the fair grounds and everything else that helps to make the town lively.

Now McGovern shows himself an equally smooth politician. He would make the farmers, always the farmers, "goat," and he sends them this referendum, the name of justice and popular government "O, temporal O, mores!" How long can these things endure? Not longer than the November election, we predict.

STRENUOUS DAYS.

These are strenuous days for politicians. With the judicial fight winding up to a fever pitch, the question of license or no license attracting state-wide attention, Beloit in a battle royal for election of a mayor, Janesville ready to select a commissioner, the average politician in the county has his hands full. With so many diverse questions to be voted on it is not strange that there are many new alignments. The dry man is consorting with the wet man to elect a judge, or commissioner, or mayor, and then

Some other cities that are wet will have these fairs and take in the money that Janesville might just as well take in.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR--A CLEAN, COOL SCALP

Use Parisian Sage. It Makes the Hair Soft, Wavy, Abundant—Cleanses and Invigorates the Scalp. It is needless for you to have hair that is anything short of perfect; if it is falling out, losing color, splitting, or if the scalp burns and itches, immediately get from your druggist a bottle of Parisian Sage—use it frequently—the first application removes dandruff, invigorates the scalp, and beautifies the hair until it is gloriously radiant. Parisian Sage supplies hair needs—it is perfectly harmless. It contains the exact elements required to make the hair soft, wavy, glossy, and to make it grow thick and beautiful. You will surely like Parisian Sage. It is one of the best and most delightful hair tonics known and is always sold by Smith Drug Co., with agreement to refund the money if you are not satisfied.

Some other cities that are wet will have these fairs and take in the money that Janesville might just as well take in.

GIANTS AND DWARFS.

It is also a noteworthy fact that both giants and dwarfs are the offspring of parents of normal height.

Truth and Judgment Day. In Truth there is no special day of judgment. Every day now is a judgment day. Judgment is being administered for every thought, word and action. The day of judgment is the time in which we experience the results of our own creations. Oftentimes we are not conscious of the judgment day, but even so, we are constantly arriving at the "judgment day."—Arthur D. Dall, in Unity.

At the close of school tonight, four weeks since the opening of the third term will have passed. After the lay-off all next week, the students will reassemble for nine more weeks of study. The high school students are especially interested in the wet and dry election which comes next Tuesday, and a good share of them will be seen awaiting the returns during the evening hours.

TO VOTE BY BALLOT AT ELECTION TUESDAY

Machines Will Not Be Used in Janesville for Spring Election.

Janesville voters at the election April seventh will be provided with three separate ballots, as the machines are not to be used, and each will be deposited in separate boxes. The ballots will be for the municipal election, judicial for municipal judge and the license question. One of the largest votes in the history of the city is expected because of the important issues involved.

City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, after making an investigation and conferring with City Attorney Dougherty, declared this morning that women who failed to register at the primary will have to swear in their votes, without the election clerks are satisfied on their franchise. It is also declared that in swearing in their votes, two property holders and electors are required. On this ruling registered women voters cannot swear in another woman's votes. Ballots on the school commissioner by the women will be cast in a separate box, making four ballot boxes that would be required.

LESSON XIII.

REVIEW: JESUS THE GREAT TEACHER

The eloquence of Jesus presents marked contrast to that of the world's greatest orators. It is not local or temporary. It relates to fundamentals of human life. Consequently it is universal and of perpetual application. It can be so because it is not of the hidden in collections of forgotten manuscripts of pulpits, but of the living words which live in every dialect, millions know them by heart. Millions rule their lives by them. This group of Jesus' sayings begins appropriately with a description of the terms of discipleship. It was a masterpiece—the placing of a child in that self-seeking company. The obedience of the child when called, the docility with which he stood where placed, and, in the end, the swift response with which he ran to Jesus' embrace with no thought of "what shall I have for this?"—there is in simple, living tableaux the characteristics of the approved disciple stood forth.

It is appropriate to pass from the spirit of discipleship to its active expression. The mission of "the Seventy" is exemplary. The orders under which these pioneers were sent are ideal instructions for Christian scouting parties everywhere. The parable of the Good Samaritan answers the question of one's moral responsibility for his fellows. He neighbors the unfortunate who rid of racial prejudice, loved his stricken brother and that, too, in no sentimental manner. Wine, oil, pence, saddle, and couch were the practical expressions of neighborship. The commercial traveler turned nurse. The juxtaposition here of form and fervency in prayer (Lord's Prayer and Parable of the Unfriendly Neighbor) is no accident. It is designed to teach that they are not inimical. The sorry plight of the ecclesiastical opponents of Jesus is evident in that they can only account for the miracle by affirming Jesus' affiliation with the devil. His answer is, "One can not be both anti-Satanic and pro-Satanic." He proves himself, by word and work, anti-Satanic. Jesus took the very dishes on the table at the Pharisee's house to illustrate his argument against ceremony for ceremony's sake. "What is the use of polishing the outside of yonder cup as long as it remains soiled within? Take out the impurity of selfishness from the heart and fill it with the spirit of service, and it makes no matter whether cured or omitted." A sparrow is worth a cent. If God takes care of a sparrow (and he does), whose life is measured by a day, will he not take care of a being who is worth a world full of sparrows and who is destined to live forever? The untimely request of a man who wanted to see Jesus to better his finances leads the Master to announce a principle and speak a parable. The principle is the separation of Church and State. The minister or religion is never to assume the function of the civil officer. The parable is that of the "Rich Fool" whose soul is demanded just as he reaches his greatest wealth. Jesus makes a coat of the parable and flings it to the back of his interrupter. The Pharisees had converted the Sabbath into a juggernaut. It crushed instead of giving life, as was intended. In protest, Jesus worked seven miracles on as many Sabbaths. His answer to his critics is, "Shall we do well or ill on the Sabbath, give life or take it? Even a beast is loosed that his temporary thirst may be quenched. Shall not an immortal being be loosed from a permanent infirmity?" The disciples who see no objective expression of the Kingdom of God stand in need of reassurance. For this very purpose Jesus asks, "What is the Kingdom of God like?" The Kingdom, at start, is a seed so small as to be almost invisible. But it is a living something. Tiny seed shall reach giant proportions. Alive itself, it can support other living organisms. The exhortation to get into living contact with this Kingdom of life follows naturally. The condition of entrance is not arbitrary. It is just what success in anything requires—concentration, sacrifice of what is inimical, and a moral earnestness which approaches agony.

WHAT MISSIONS ARE DOING FOR THE WORLD.

(Foreign Missionary Society). What St. Paul, the ideal missionary, did for the island of Cyprus is a miniature of what missions are doing for the world. They rid it of sorcery. Age-old and cruel delusions have been removed in our day. The substitution of medicine and surgery for witchcraft and amulets alone would be the justification of missions.

Political Announcement. Written and publication authorized by P. J. Goodman and to be paid for by him at the rate of 25c per inch.

Political Rumor Answered

Those of the Opposite Faith
Would Lead You to Believe
Something Not So.

There seems to be a persistent rumor about the city to the effect that should I be the choice of the people at the coming election for commissioner, I WILL MAKE USE OF THE OFFICE TO PUNISH SOMEBODY.

I wish to SPIKE THAT RUMOR—KILL IT DEAD—BEFORE IT GOES FURTHER.

First, I have no enemies. I bear no ill-will toward any man. My hatchets have all been buried.

AT THIS TIME I WISH TO GO ON RECORD AND LET IT BE UNDERSTOOD FOR ALL TIME, THAT SHOULD I BE YOUR CHOICE AT THE POLLS NEXT TUESDAY, I WILL FILL THE OFFICE FOR THE BENEFIT OF ALL THE PEOPLE—THAT ASIDE FROM DOING MY DUTY I SHALL IN NO WAY MOLEST THE FAVORABLE CONDITIONS WHICH SURROUND THE ADMINISTRATION.

As near as I can read public sentiment, people are tired of the turmoil among themselves; they want to be at peace with each other. This is necessary for the welfare of the city and it is my ambition to see the city prosper to the utmost.

These rumors I believe come from those who oppose me politically and should be treated from that standpoint.

Respectfully,

Peter J. Goodman

Candidate.

There's a second Eva Tanguay at the Apollo this week in Mamie Elmore. A more resourceful or original little comedienne has never been seen at this theatre. She is versatile and bubbling over with humor.

The Majestic Comedy Four have extra good voices and render a program that always pleases here. Their act is a combination of harmony and mirth.

Kraft and Myrtle present a comedy talking skit, entitled "The Bell Hop and the News Girl," which is rather good.

In addition to the vaudeville bill two or more good motion pictures are shown daily and the Apollo orchestra adds one more feature to a bill which the management tries to make the best at all times.

STOMACH SOUR? FEEL COSTIVE, BILIOUS? TAKE CASCARETS TONIGHT—DIME A BOX

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

THE REASON FEWER PEOPLE TAKE "SALTS"

We find the use of salts and other harsh physics is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and, by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less liable to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant, beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely relieve all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes, 10c, 25c, 50c. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Stores, and in this town only at Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

I Tell You Catarrh CAN Be Cured

I Know That What Cured Me After 25 Years of Useless Doctoring Will Interest Every Catarrh Victim and I'll Spend the Money to Tell Them How This Modern Wonder Was Accomplished.

You Can Try and Prove This Great Method Absolutely Free of Cost.

I am not a doctor and not a scientist. I am simply an American business man with common sense enough to appreciate a really good thing when I have it proved to me, and with enough humanity to want others to benefit as I did. When I was afflicted with the inconvenience, the humiliation, the embarrassment of catarrh for 25 long years, spending hundreds of dollars and much valuable time on alleged remedies without any success, and then suddenly finds a means that cures him almost like magic, it is his plain duty to see that all the world is made to hear of it.

It makes no difference how bad your Catarrh or Asthma may be, the very first use of this treatment will bring you INSTANT relief. I tell you to depend upon it absolutely.

It makes no difference how bad your Catarrh or Asthma may be, the very first use of this treatment will bring you INSTANT relief. I tell you to depend upon it absolutely.

For all those years I went about half ashamed of myself, always conscious of the disgusting and disgusting practices I was forced to indulge in. I couldn't help sneezing, spitting, sneezing and blowing my nose, no matter where I happened to be, and I was well aware that people looked at me like a leper and kept away from me. My wife and children, and my friends, all looked at me with averted faces and I felt like a leper and kept away from me.

After I had tried about everything (half a hundred different remedies), I learned of this wonderful Swiss treatment and had recourse to me some of the remarkable results it had brought about. I tried it and was better in an instant. In just a short time I was well and free from that awful Catarrh.

I was so pleased, so thankful, that I determined everyone should have the chance to profit by it. I bought the formula and rights and now offer you sufferers from Catarrh the chance to try this wonderful SWISS-AMERICAN VAPORATOR without a cent of cost. Just send me the coupon below. The VAPORATOR is so small it can be carried in the pocket or handbag and used without trouble or publicity. Just send the coupon—but do it NOW. Grasp the opportunity while it still knocks at your door. Send today sure.

A. H. Freeman, Suite 602, 102 N. Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill.

I have never tried the SWISS-AMERICAN VAPORATOR TREATMENT and should like to do so. I can without any cost for the trial. I suffer from Catarrh or Asthma.

A Complete Salvation

By Rev. PARLEY E. ZARTMANN, D. D.
Secretary of Extension Department
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.—Heb. 7:25.

That is exactly what Christ is to the believing souls he saves "completely." It is not only a fact but an assurance as well that the Jesus who is the only Saviour also is an all-sufficient Saviour. He is not only the Name, he is the all-prevailing Name. He is able to save to the uttermost; it is a complete salvation, extending to all particulars.

No wonder those who put their trust in him unite in saying, Hallelujah! what a Saviour! The Epistle to the Hebrews is a series of contrasts between the good things of Judaism and the better things of Christ. He is better than angels, than Moses, than Joshua, than Aaron; and the new covenant than the Mosaic covenant. In the section of the Epistle where the text occurs he is set forth as the Great High Priest and certified as superior to Melchisedec and any of the Aaronic priesthood. He is the eternal one who abideth a priest forever. "This man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood." The life in the power of which he ministers, and the life which he ministers, is a life that abides unchangeable. His priesthood is an everlasting one, ever living, ever active. There is never a moment in which his priestly action, his watchful care of us, his loving sympathy and succor, his working in us in the power of an endless life, is not in full operation. Therefore he can save completely.

Unto the Uttermost.

We have here the very promise we need, lest we hesitate to begin the Christian life, or having begun, faint by the way. This is not only the heart of the gospel, but also the secret of Christian perfection. The salvation wrought by Christ for us and in us is not only negative, saying us from sin, but also positive, conferring on us eternal life.

The work of Christ is set in contrast with that of the law. In verse 19 we read "for the law made nothing perfect;" but Christ saves completely. It has availed for the worst characters; the thief on the cross, Saul of Tarsus, John Bunyan, S. H. Haddley. It reaches the greatest numbers; 3,000 on the day of Pentecost, multitudes in mission fields, thousands under the preaching of Whitfield, Moody, Chapman, Sunday, and finally a nation in a day. It leaves nothing undone, it is a complete salvation. It meets the uttermost need of any man, anywhere, any time. What a word that is: What ever you need, Jesus is able.

You have doubted it; some days you think you are saved, and some days you are in despair. The real trouble is, you are leaning upon some experience, looking for the repetition of some unusual feeling, depending upon favorable circumstances. You have forgotten what manner of Saviour Jesus is—the unchanging, eternal, interceding, complete Saviour. Nothing is too hard for him. Start your thought of salvation not upon your feeling or your experience, but by apprehending what Christ really is for the human race: perfect God and perfect man; with God's love and power, with man's sympathy and experience, meeting our enemy and conquering him, and now gone into the holiest of all there to appear in the presence of God for us, ever living to intercede—his whole work appealing and availing that we may be made the righteousness of God in him. Get hold of what Christ's finished work has done for you. Regenerating, justifying, sanctifying; then remember that true faith takes what God provides, and needs no more for its ground and gladness than the fact that God said it.

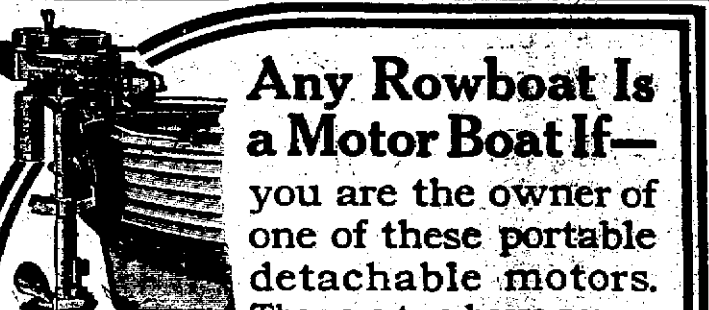

I Am Included.

This complete salvation is for them that come unto God by him. You may be of the great and goodly number who receive it and rejoice in it. When the Lord said, Whosoever, he included me. John 3:16 is still true; Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, yes, and forever; still he says: No man cometh unto the Father but by me. Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out. Still Christ is able to save unto the uttermost. What more could be done? What more could one want than a complete salvation? Believe what God says; accept what God offers. "Your sins he will more than pardon; your cares he will more than bear; your temptations he will more than overcome; your doubt he will more than dispel; your crosses he will more than carry; your perplexities he will more than resolve; your bereavements he will more than sweeten."

"Lord, I'll trust thy wondrous love, Mighty to save."

MILWAUKEE POLITICIANS BUSY MAKING PROMISES IN SPIRITED CAMPAIGN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., April 3.—With the primary campaign out of the way, followers of the politicians have found that the remaining candidates have catch phrases as varied as their beliefs. With the exception of the socialist candidates who have one and all adopted the slogan "Public ownership of public utilities," the other candidates are advertising themselves in various manners. Mayor Harding promises "Full value for your taxes." City Treasurer Carney claims to be "The servant of the people" and Comptroller Kotecki wants "Business methods for city business." Among the candidates for the council, Henry Smith will work for "The city's welfare." Byron Morgan pledges "Greater efficiency, less unnecessary expense." Alderman Friedrich, "Honesty and good government." H. M. Louis, "Business administration on business principles." Oscar Althoff, "The will of my constituents." Henry Bulder, "Efficiency, lower taxes, home rule." Adam Muth, "Right on all questions."

PAYS LARGE FINE AS A RESULT OF APRIL FOOL

[RECEIVED APRIL 3.] Madison, Wis., April 3.—It cost Jacob Kronsafsky $50 in court fines as the result of playing an April Fool's joke on his friend and neighbor, Isaac Sinalke of this city. Some one called on Kronsafsky and played a joke on him. He immediately phoned his friend "Ike" that his warehouse was on fire. "Ike" didn't wait to get the last of the message but sent in a fire alarm. The police arrested Kronsafsky. "We have had enough of this monkey business," said Judge Fehlandt when Kronsafsky was arraigned. "I fine you $50 and costs or 60 days in jail." Kronsafsky paid his fine.

Impressive Figures.

The following calculation is interesting: Suppose one boy, aged ten years, determines to rise at five o'clock all the year round. Another of the same age, indolent and fond of ease, rises at eight, or an average of eight, every morning. If they both live to be seventy years old the one will have gained over the other, during the intervening period of sixty years, 65,745 hours, which is equal to 2,739 and a fraction days, or just 7½ years.

Essay on the Human Hair.

Under the microscope human hair is a more or less complex and very variable tissue. In size, shape and structure (it is a sort of concrete structure) as well as color there is more or less variation of detail. Architecturally curly hair differs from the straight variety; kinky hair has a special construction of its own, which explains the kinks; there's a reason, apparent under the revealing eye of the microscope, for the black, red, silky, and all other varieties.

Call for Special Session of Legislature
Is Compromise by Which They Would Save Themselves.

The Gazette has received a communication which analyzes keenly and thoroughly the move on the part of the administration officials by which they would compromise with their friends, the voters, get back into the good graces of the taxpayer, and save their own jobs. The communication treats of the call for a special session of the legislature in the following manner:

To the Editor of the Janesville Gazette:

Janesville, Wisconsin.

The politician and office-holder has just heard the noises that precede the revolution of thought as to the duties of public office-holders, the rights of the citizens and the use to be made of public funds, and they have asked the governor to call an extra session of the legislature that the legislature give ear to the citizen taxpayer rather than to the professional expert and theorist. It is but a few days since one of the leaders of the Tax Commission termed these protests of the people "barbaric rump." And another state officer has stated that the taxes would not be as high next year or succeeding years as this year.

As this year the governor, the state treasurer and the attorney general have been high and when taxes become a burden on the people it is pre-eminently the duty with those in office to lighten that burden.

Shall we accept the offer and trade and barter with our servants who in writing have acknowledged their incompetence and their inability to do the business man's duty with those in office?

Shall we accept the offer and trade and barter with our servants who in writing have acknowledged their incompetence and their inability to do the business man's duty with those in office?

the young men and women of this state. There seems to still remain in the minds of the petitioners for an extra session of the legislature a fear of a return to food prices, when the small taxpayer was discriminated against in favor of the rich. Has anyone discovered what benefit the income tax has ever been to any taxpayer? Certainly our taxes have been higher with the income tax than without it. Was there ever a time when the small taxpayer paid so much taxes as he does now? Again he says "when railroad taxes controlled the making of their own tax rates, when railroad bribery with railroad passes was the rule."

My dear politician while those times were preferable and cheaper to the tax payers than the present conditions it was not you that destroyed these wrongs. It was not you that made the railroad rates lower, nor your commissions. It was not you that lowered the rates of any public utility. It was not you that put in many instances in the State of Wisconsin are largely in excess both per mile and per ton of what the farmer, manufacturer and producer in Wisconsin to the market in Chicago. Your commission did not fix the passenger rate, nor did you control the legislatures with their commissions and professors did that. Not in the memory of the present voter, at any time, did insurance companies squander money of policy holders. The rates of insurance have increased, instead of the killing and maiming of the workingman being cheaper in the old days than now there never was a time when the life and the arm, as this year the governor, the state treasurer and the attorney general have been high and when taxes become a burden on the people it is pre-eminently the duty with those in office to lighten that burden.

You speak of spoils system crowding the state officials with incompetents. Never until the present political theorist assumed the reins of the government in 1910 was there ever a state payroll crowded with incompetents. The names of incompetents and incompetents on the payroll have increased from 1,000 to over 5,000 under your rule. The secret boss existed only in your imagination. Then the people in office were not so incompetent as you say. They were men of at least fair ability and dignity. Commensurate to the office to which they were elected under your present rule as stated by your learned leader a few years ago when he put primary election law in force, "they never can put us out of office." You still think it is true. The wronged people will demonstrate that the state officials are not so competent as you have made. The invisible government, you speak of, is the one which you answer the call of. Your government is not the government of the people and for the benefit of the people, but a government by the professional politician, so called governmental experts, whose wastefulness and traveling expenses are paid by the people. Whose duties are to keep the state in a state of political and political experiments to compromise. Shall we accept the offer and trade and barter with our servants who in writing have acknowledged their incompetence and their inability to do the business man's duty with those in office?

CHEAPER TOBACCO HAS GOOD MARKET

Poorer Grades of Crop Available for Stemming/Purposes Only Are Being Disposed Of.

The almost impassable condition of the country roads has pretty effectually interfered with tobacco movements from the farms during the week says the Edgerton Reporter. However, the cheaper end of the crop for stemming purposes is being sought after with more vigor than at any time of the season. At prices ranging from 8 down to 6 cents—considerable leaf, heretofore neglected, has been moved and the movement now under way is likely to clear up the balance of the crop in short order. The indications are that very little will be left in the growers' hands by the time the seed is sown for another crop.

The warehouse help is thinning out as the spring approaches, but there is work in sight with the larger operators for several weeks yet. The bundle bulks remain in prime condition for handling.

The market for old leaf reflects of the nature of the eastern centers, which is reported dull at this time of the year.

Want Ad. Results

Have the Browns moved out west as they intended to? was the question asked of a young matron the other day by her friend from another city, who was visiting her for the day. "Yes, she replied," "They left last Friday, for Spokane." "Have they sold their farm here?" continue the first speaker. "They were so anxious to that Fred and I feared they would have to sell at almost a loss if at all." "They sold all right," said the woman addressed. "They sold at a big profit too. They run a want ad to the effect that they were going west and would dispose of their farm, its implements and stock at a bargain to a cash here?" continued the first speaker at all in disposing of everything at a very satisfactory price."

You see the majority of people are waking to the fact that the want ad page of their home paper is bristling with opportunities for them, no matter where in life their path may lie. Is it helping you any? If not, why not?

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"IT takes all the pleasure out of entertaining to be poor," I heard a woman say the other day.

"Why?" I asked.

"Because you never can have things just as they ought to be. I'm going to give an afternoon tea for my niece and I'm simply wretched over it. My teaspoons aren't the right size and I haven't any sugar tongs, and I'm afraid I shant have enough of the tea napkins, and may have to fill in with the larger ones. I'd give the whole thing up if I could but I don't want to disappoint Margaret."

What a spirit to plan an entertainment!

What do we invite our friends to our homes for, anyway?

To enjoy their company and to give them a pleasant time?

Or to show them our household possessions and prove that we know the rules of etiquette for each occasion and have all the required impediments?

Real hospitality is a beautiful thing. The travesty into which we pervert it by trying to follow certain set forms and do everything just as "they" prescribe, is a very unbecoming thing.

It is perfectly possible to entertain one's friends, and entertain them acceptably, no matter how poor one is. Only you must go about the matter in a dignified and self-respecting spirit.

Give the best you can; believe that that is sufficient; act as if it were sufficient, and it will be sufficient. Put good taste and careful planning into your preparations, select congenial people; don't get so tired that you cannot greet them with warm cordiality; put the spirit of real hospitality into the occasion; and it cannot fail to be a success.

What factor makes you have a good time when you go anywhere? Because all the appointments are just as Mrs. Grundy dictates, and the food and entertainment are expensive?

Or because you are received with sincere cordiality and meet congenial people?

Of course there may be a few people who will not care for your friendship if you cannot measure up to all Mrs. Grundy's standards, but do you care for their friendship? They may be all right in their way, but aren't there enough people who are cultured, refined and worth knowing, and yet not so exacting, from whom you can more wisely and happily choose your friends?

A great many of the pleasures of life are spoiled by the attempt to compete with people who have more money than we. Let's not permit the joy of hospitality, the pleasure of entertaining one's friends be among this number.

BRONZE SHOES ARE THE CORRECT STYLE

Black and White Striped Silks Fashionable for Afternoon Wear—Large Checkered Gowns Popular.

(Margaret Mason.)

New York, April 3.—Yea, verily; if lovely woman wants to put the best foot foremost this season she must go to it that it be shod in bronze. Though the ideal of fashion has clay feet, yet they are sure to be bronze coated. Indeed it were almost better to wear a black eye than a black shoe so if you want the stamp of sartorial approval you must wear your own stamping in bronze boots.

One of the loveliest of the new bronze models is dubbed the Ostend. It has the Colonial tongue, but spurring the buckle, a neat little strap fastens it on one side with a button of cut steel or bronze. Of course this model is developed in black, white, and gun metal, of kid, suede, or cloth, but it is when of bronze kid that it has reached its acme of perfection.

The elaborate strapping of the tango slipper is shown to advantage in the bronze kid and another pretty effect is a slipper with two straps crossing over the instep and fastening with jeweled buttons on each side. The debutante still clings to the flat heeled pump and sandal but for her more seasoned sisters the higher the French heel the more it is to their sole satisfaction.

Both white and bronze hued silk hose are smart with the bronze footwear and bright green, blue and violet are often worn with impunity and a matching costume. What boots it if your face be bronzed by the summer winds, for so your feet are bronzed by the boots of the mode. And after all what could be more fitting for your pedal extremities. Isn't bronze a base metal?

Larger even than the checks of a corporation president are the checks of the coat suits now being much affected for smart street wear. Black and white is the favored combination and in both the huge checks and wide stripes this color contrast develops costumes that are startlingly chic and striking. It is with these "clashes of light and shade" that the black shoe has one innate. With a costume like this the black patent kid Ostend, or Colonial pump is the really smart finish to a white silk stockinged foot.

The black and white striped silks are wonderfully good for the afternoon informal frocks and one lovely, white crepe striped in red like a penicillin's look was the envied possession of a dark-haired belle at a recent Broadway theatrical opening. The skirt was simply draped, falling out triangularly over the hips. The waist cut all in one piece opened down the front and showed a vest of white, while a fitted full of the tulle bled in red outlined the low neck. A wide crush belt of jet trimmed black moire and a smart black hem that snooked up on one side to reveal the grey of new drenched locks completed the ravishing ensemble. In words of the galaxy she certainly looked the candy kid.

Children seem to be as much ruffled over the new fashions as their elders. Frocks or the five year olds have tiers of ruffles about the hip line to give a bouffant silhouette just like Mamma's. Quaint little short waisted dresses of pompadour, taffetas and brilliant hued polka silks have tiny pinked ruchings around the bottom of the skirts and an adorable little pleated flesh colored chiffon has a smoked yoke and giraffe of deeper rose while the skirt is cunningly hobbled with a band of smocking.

For little lads the David Copperfield suits with their white waists collared and cuffed, in colored lines to match the three quarter trousers, which fasten high up on the waist with large white pearl buttons are most attractive. Shier pleated white frills around the neck and sleeves in lieu of the collar cuffs of colored linen are more dressy and turn a sturdy little American boy into a fac simile of the little Dauphin of France.

The long trousers with a lion soil or suits still hold their own in spite of the David Copperfield rival, and in fact reign supreme, in the heart of the small boy who rebels internally at the more picturesque attire wished on him by doting maternal parents and fickle fashion.

Women Worth While

CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon

Charlotte Perkins Gilman, who recently came to Washington to deliver a lecture on suffrage to an audience made up largely of society leaders, there, is one of the foremost figures in the international feminist movement of the day. For twenty-five years past she has courageously formulated in her writings an unpopular philosophy which she has traveled from San Francisco to Budapest to present to whomever would listen. And her audiences, despite the radical tendency and the unconventional nature of all her doctrines, are usually large and distinguished ones.

Mrs. Gilman, in her advocacy of "kitchenless homes," "communal dining rooms," and socialized motherhood, as a means of emancipation for the modern woman, has evoked a storm of protest from the more conservative of many nations. Even Ellen Key, the Swedish feminist whose writings and teachings are considered by many the last word in radicalism, has challenged Mrs. Gilman's theory of "socialized motherhood," or motherhood which gives over to trained specialists the care, education and training of children from the time of their birth. Mrs. Gilman, however, answers Miss Key and other opponents thus:

Never once, she says, in writing or from platform or pulpit have I denied the right and duty, the joy and pride of every normal woman to be a mother. What I do deny absolutely is that the individual mother can be all sufficient as the educator of humanity. The human child needs first, and always his mother's love, but he needs in ever increasing addition to this the love and care and service of those socially specialized to this great end. Mrs. Gilman was born in Hartford, Connecticut. She is a granddaughter of Lyman Beecher, the clergyman, and a niece of another clergyman whose name was Henry Ward Beecher. A friend of Mrs. Gilman gives the following interesting glimpse of her character and personality:

"She is the owner of what New Englanders know as faculty. The work of her hands is faultless. She can cook to a turn. She can design and fit and sew. She can, if demanded, furnish a 'clean house.' She has real artistic sense and draws and colors with great ability. As story teller, in private theatricals, in her dealings with children, her delightful humor and sympathy are always uppermost."

Mrs. Gilman did not begin writing and speaking in public until she was thirty. Her brilliant intellect and forceful personality soon won for her a wide following. She has written three books which are now used as text books in colleges and universities in this country. Her volumes, "Women and Economics," "The Man of the House," and "The Forerunner," in which she advances many of her theories. She usually visits Washington on every season, and her woman in public life today has more loyal or devoted personal following in cities that reach from coast to coast.

WISHED HE HADN'T.

"Who is that strange looking man over there, who is staring at me so much?"

"Oh, that is Professor Jenkins, the famous expert on insanity."

Sad Lesson.

A—"You don't seem to have any life in you. Is there nothing or no body over which you can enthuse?"

B—"Nothing at all. I once became enthusiastic over somebody, and a short time afterward she became my wife. That was a sad warning to me to avoid enthusiasm."

THE TABLE.

Caramel Syrup—Put one cupful of granulated sugar in a frying-pan. Stir it over a moderate fire until it is melted into a light-brown liquid. Remove from the fire and pour into a small cup of boiling water. Heat and stir until the water melts the clear, hard candy. Pour into a pitcher, and serve hot or cold with griddle cakes.

Raised Muffins—Two cupfuls of milk, one cupful of butter, three cupfuls of flour, one-quarter cup of yeast or one-half yeast cake, one teaspoonful of salt.

Soak the milk and add the butter, and cook when lukewarm stir in the yeast, salt and the flour, and beat well for five minutes. Cover and set to rise about two hours until double in bulk. Add sufficient flour to make a soft dough. Divide into small balls, and place in a deep greased pan, cover and let rise to double their bulk. Bake about one-half hour when served pull them open, slice cutting them thick.

WHY FAMOUS PASTRY COOKS USE K C BAKING POWDER

The patrons of our first class hotels and restaurants are exacting—they demand the best. Women go where the pastry and cakes are noted for their excellence. Men are attracted by hot bread and biscuits—when fresh and moist and light.

The pastry cook with a reputation uses K C Baking Powder because he knows that results are certain; every time everything is as good as his best.

Then, too, with K C Baking Powder he can mix the various kinds of batter before the rush of the meal begins and bake as needed so that every order goes to the table fresh and hot, yet the last he bakes are just as good as the first.

The reasons behind these reasons is that K C is really a blend of two baking powders. One commences to give off leavening gas as soon as moistened. The other requires both moisture and heat to make it active. Dough or batter will remain in a partially leavened condition for hours, and when put in the oven, will come up as light as if mixed a moment before.

For cookies, pancakes, doughnuts and the like, which cannot all be baked at once, K C is indispensable. For all baking the double raise makes doubly certain.

How Her Little Girl Was Restored to Health.

Mrs. Chas. Schrieffer of 139 Elmwood St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "My little girl was frail, sickly and all run down after having had the grippe. I was advised to give her Vinol and after the first bottle noticed an improvement. She has taken four bottles and has picked up rapidly, having gained six pounds in three weeks. The reason Vinol builds up weak, ailing children so quickly is because it contains in a delicious combination the two most world-famed tonics—i. e., the strength creating, body building elements of cod liver oil, with all the useless grease eliminated, and tonic iron for the blood added. If you have a weak, puny, ailing child, try Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to benefit your little one. Smith Drug Co. Druggists, Jansville, Wis. P. S. Sure Indications of Lung Trouble

Among the indications of threatened Lung Trouble are a continued cough, fever and night sweats. A change of climate often helps, but it seems that the cough, fever and night sweats are the most reliable signs and arrest the progress of disease. Eckman's Alternative, after many years of use, is known to be the most powerful of complete remedies. Investigate this case: "Gentlemen: I had a terrible cough, night sweats and pleurisy in my lungs. A man who heard me coughing advised me to take your Alternative. I paid no attention to him then. I got so bad the doctor said I should go to Wyoming. I grew worse. Then I remembered what had been told me about your medicine. I began taking it, with no faith what-soever, but before I had taken three bottles, I could eat anything. Fever and night sweats stopped and for over a year I have been well and in better health than I ever was."

The Valiants of Virginia

By Hallie Erminie Rives
Old Post Wharves
Illustrated by Laura Reed

Copyright, 1913, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

The rocking-chairs behind the screening vines became motionless, and the ladies exchanged surreptitious smiles. If the two gentlemen were aware of each other's sterling qualities, their mutual appreciation was in inverse ratio to its expression, and, as the Elucianan mysteries, cloaked before the world. In public the doctor was wont to remark that the major talked like a Caesar, looked like a piano-tuner and was the only man he had ever seen who could strut sitting down. Never were his gibes so barbed as when launched against the major's white-waistcoated and patrician calm, and conversely, never did the major's bland suavity so nearly approach an undignified irritation as when receiving the venomous darts of that accomplished cynic.

The major settled his black tie. "A little wholesome exercise wouldn't be a bad thing for you, Doctor," he said succinctly. "You're looking a shade pasty today."

"Exercise!" snapped the other viciously, as he pounded down the steps. "Ha, ha! I suppose you exercise—lazing out to the Dandridges, once a week for a julep, and the rest of the time wearing out good cane-bottoms and palm-leaf fans and cussing at the heat. You'll go off with apoplexy one of these days."

"I shall if they're scared enough to call you," the major shot after him, nettled. But the doctor did not pause. He went on down the street without turning his head. The major lifted his hat gallantly to the ladies, whose presence he had just observed. "Do sit down, Major," said Mrs. Gifford. "There's a question I'm just dying to ask you. We've had such an interesting conversation. You've heard the news, of course, that young Mr. Valiant is coming to Damory Court?"

The major sat down heavily. In the bright light his face seemed suddenly pale and old. "No?" the lady's tone was arch. "Have all the rest of us really got ahead of you for once? Yes, it's true. There's some one there getting it to rights. Now here's the question. There was a woman, of course, at the bottom of the Vallant duel. I'd never dream of asking you who she was. But which was it she loved, Vallant or Sassoon?"

CHAPTER XII.
The Echo.
When the major entered his room, Jereboam, his ancient body-servant, was dawdling about putting things to rights, his seamed visage under his white wool suggesting a charred stump beneath a crisp powdering of snow. "Jedge Chalmers done telly-foam ter ax yo' ovah ter Gladden Hall ter suppah to-night, suh," he said. "Toll him not tonight, Jerry," said the other wearily. "Some other time."

"I wish to God I knew!" said the major roughly, standing still. It silenced them, but the sound of his own voice, as though it had been a preconcerted signal, drew together a hundred inchoate images of other days. There was the well-ordered garden of Damory Court—it rose up, gloomy with night shadows, across his great clothes-press against the wall—with himself sitting on a rustic-bench smoking and behind him the candle-lighted library window with Beauty Vallant peeling up and down, waiting for daylight. There was a sunlit stretch between two hemlocks, with Southall and he measuring the ground—the grass all dewy sparkles and an early robin teetering on a thorn-bush. Eight—nine—ten—he caught himself counting the paces. He wiped his forehead. Between the hemlocks now were two figures facing each other, one twitching uncertainly, the other pale rigid; and at one side, held screen-wise, a raised umbrella. In some ghostly way he could see right through the latter—see the doctor's hand gripping the handle, his own outstretched beyond its edge, holding a handkerchief ready to flutter down. A silly subterfuge those umbrellas, but there must be no actual witnesses to the final act of a "gentleman's meeting." A silly code the whole of it, now happily outgrown! The scene blurred down—huddling down—

"Which did she love?" The major shook his head helplessly. It was, after all, only the echo, become all at once audible on a shallow woman's lips, or a question that had always haunted him. It had first come to him on the heels of that duel, when he had stood, somewhat later that hateful morning, holding a saddled horse before the big pillared porch. It had whispered itself then from every moving leaf. "Sassoon or Vallant?" If she had loved Sassoon, of what use the letter Vallant was so long penning in the library? But—if it were Vallant she loved? The man who, having sworn not to lift his hand against the other, had broken his sacred word to her! Who had stained the unwritten code by facing an opponent maddened with liquor! Yet, what was there a woman might not condone in the one man? Would she read, forgive and send for him?

The major laughed out suddenly, harshly, in the quiet room, and looked down as if he expected to see that letter still lying in his hand. But the laugh could not still a regular pulsing sound that was in his ears—elfin like the voices, but as distinct—the sound of a horse's hoofs going from Damory Court.

He had heard those hoof-beats echo in his brain for thirty years! Till the sun was high John Vallant lay on his back in the fragrant grass, meditatively watching a buccaneering chicken-hawk draw widening circles against the blue and listening to the vibrant tattoo of a "pecker-wood" on a far-away tree, and the timorous wet whistle of a bob-white. The whole place was very quiet now. For just one thrilling moment it had burgeoned into sound and movement: when the sweaty horses had stood snorting and stamping in the yard with the hounds scampering between their legs and the riding-coats winking like rubies in the early sunshine!

Had she recognized him as the smudged tinkerer of the stalled car? "She saw me drop that wretched brute through the window," he chuckled. "I could take oath to that. But she didn't give me away, true little sport that she was. And she won't. I can't think of any reason, but I know. Was she angry? I wonder!" At length he rose and went back to the house. With a bunch of keys he had found he went to the stables, after some difficulty gained access, and propped the crazy doors and windows open to the sun. The building was airy and well-lighted and contained a dozen roomy box-stalls, a spacious loft and a carriage-house. The straw bedding had been unre-moved, mice-gnawed sacking and rotted hay lay in the mangers, and the warped harness, hanging on its pegs, was a smelly mass of mildew and decay. He found a stick, mowed away the festooning cobwebs, and moved the debris piece-meal.

"There!" he said with satisfaction. "There's a place for the motor—if Uncle Jefferson ever gets it here." It was noon when he returned, after a wash-up in the lake, to the meal with which Aunt Daphne, in a costume dimly suggestive of a bran-meal poultice with a gingham apron, regaled him. Fried chicken, corn-bread so soft and fluffy that it had to be lifted from the pan with a spoon, browned potatoes, and to his surprise, fresh milk. "Ah done druv ovah ol' cow ovah, suh," explained Aunt Daphne. "Case, she gotted her milked, or she run dry ez de Red Sea fo' de chillion ob Izril!"

"Aunt Daphne," inquired Vallant with his mouth full, "what do you call this green thing?" "Dat's jes' turnip-tops, suh, wid er hunk er bacon in de pot. Lawd-er-mee, et der'n'y do me good ter see yo' git arter it dat way, suh. Reck'n yo' got er appetite! Hyuh, Hyuh!"

"I have," he never guessed it before, and it's a magnificent discovery. However, it suggests unwelcome reflections. Aunt Daphne, how long do you estimate a man can dine like this on—well, say on a hundred dollars?" "Er hun-d' dollars, suh? Dat's er right smart heap o' money, deed et is! Well suh, 'pen'a on what yo' raises. Ef yo' raises yo' own garden-sass on chicken an' aigs, Ah reck'n yo' kin live longah dan dat ar Methusalem, en still haf mos' of it in de ol' stock-in'."

"Ah! I can grow all those things myself, you think?" "Yo' cert'n'y kin," said Aunt Daphne. "Ev'body do. De chicken done peck fo' deyselfes on de yuddah things—yo' on'y gatter 'courage 'em on dey jes' grows."

Vallant ate his dessert with a thoughtful smile wrinkling his brow. As he pushed back his chair he smote his hands together and laughed aloud. "Back to the soil!" he said. "John Vallant, farmer! The miracle of it is that it sounds good to me. I want to raise my own grub and till my own soil. I want to be my own man! And I'm beginning to see my way. Crops will have to wait for another season, but there's water and pasture for cattle now. There's timber—lots of it—on that hillside, too. I must look into that."

He filled his pipe and climbed the staircase to the upper floor. There were many bedrooms with great four-posted, canopied beds and old-fashioned carved furniture of mahogany and curly-maple, and in one he found a great cedar-lined chest filled with bed-linen and napery. In these rooms were more evidences of decay. The bedroom he mentally chose for his own was the plainest of all, and was above the library, fronting the vagon-bond garden. It had a great black desk with many glass-knobbed drawers and a book-rack.

He lingered longest in a room whose door was painted The Hilarium. It had evidently been a nursery and schoolroom. Here on the walls were many shelves wound over with networks of cobwebs, and piled with the oddest assemblage of toys. There were school-books, too, thumbed and dog-eared, from First Reader to Caesar's Gallic Wars, with names of small Vallants scrawled on their fly-leaves. He carefully relocked the door of this room; he wanted to dust those toys and books with his own hands.

In the upper hall again he leaned from the window, sniffing the far-flung scent of orchards and peach-blown fence-rows. The soft whirring sound of a bird's wing went past, almost brushing his startled face, and the old oaks seemed to stretch their bent limbs with a faithful brute-like yawn of pleasure. In the room below he could hear the vigorous sound of Aunt Daphne's hard-driven broom and the sound flooded the echoing space with a comfortable commotion.

He went to his trunk and fished out a soft shirt on which he knotted a loose tie, exchanged his Panama for a slouch hat, and whistling the barcarole from Tales of Hoffmann, went gaily out. "I feel tremendously alive today," he confided to the dog, as he tramped through the lush grass. "If you see me ladle the muck out of that fountain with my own fair hands, don't have a fit. I'm liable to do anything."

His eye swept up and down the slope. "There probably isn't a finer site for a house in the whole South," he told himself. "The living-rooms front south and west. We'll get scrumptious sunsets from that back porch. And on the other side there's the view clear to the Blue Ridge."

He skirted the lake. "Only to grub out some of the lilies—there's too many of them—and straighten the rim—and weed the pebble margin to give those green rocks a show. I'll build a little wharf below them to dive from, and—yes, I'll stock it with spotted trout."

Dinner Stories

Clarence was a medical student, and had not learned enough to understand that what he did not know would fill several large books.

was in the head of a man who complained of great pain, and to report on the case later.

With a solemn air Clarence adjusted the ophthalmoscope, and gazed seriously and long into the patient's eye. When at last there was no excuse for gazing, any longer he stood up and said: "My dear sir—my very dear sir, if you will allow me to say so—you possess a most remarkable eye. I have never in the whole course of my professional career—he had left school about six months previously—"seen an eye like it! Has an opinion ever been passed on it before?"

"Well—er, no, not exactly. But the man who showed it in said it was a fine bit of glass."

"Ever lose a surgical case?" "Nope. I thought I was going to lose one once, but it came out all right."

"The patient came near dying, eh?" "Oh, he did. But his heirs paid for the operation."

Ben Behling Gave Up Hope Before He Found Remedy—Happy Now.

Ben F. Behling of 959 Louis Avenue, Milwaukee, was a sufferer from maladies of the stomach and digestive tract for a long time. He gave up hope.

At last he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. He took a dose just to try it. The results were remarkable. He wrote: "I was in such a bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me."

NOLICENSE MEANS HIGHER TAXES

Do You Tax Payers Want To Try A Costly Experiment For Janesville At This Time By Voting The Saloons Out.

Let us look the tax question in the face and see just where we would stand should Janesville be voted "No License," on Tuesday next.

The $22,500 derived from saloon licenses will have to be added pro rata to your present taxes.

There are nearly two hundred families in town engaged directly or indirectly in the saloon business.

They pay taxes on their personal property as do the saloons on their stock and fixtures.

Now, if these people are voted out of town you will have to pay the taxes that are now being paid by them.

Voting "No License" will not reduce taxes; on the other hand, it is very apt to increase them as the city will be put to additional expense in prosecuting the unlawful bootlegger who springs up in "No License" territory.

A person owning property knows that the law of supply and demand effects rentals, and 42 business houses and 100 to 150 residence houses empty in Janesville will have a depreciating effect on rentals.

Can you say that other lines of business will go into these store buildings when it is a well-known fact that all lines of merchandise are now adequately represented and competition keen and to have these stores filled with competitors would be an injustice to the present merchants who have made Janesville?

Our legitimate merchants are paying to the property owners as high rent as any city of the size of Janesville, in this or any other state. Can the owner of business property afford to have 42 business houses vacated July 1st so that they can be rented for one-half what our merchants are now paying? Cheap rent makes poor business and depreciates the value of property.

Can a man paying $100 per month rent in the clothing business, compete with his next door neighbor who only pays $50 per month?

Will the owner of one of the vacant buildings allow it to stand idle, or will he accept any rent he can get and thereby put the man out of business who is paying $100 as now?

You might say the men engaged in the saloon business will find positions in our factories, etc., but if they do, they will have to take the job away from the man who now has it and he will have to seek employment elsewhere.

The taxes of Janesville are now an inducement to secure factories, etc., and the Twenty-five Thousand and Commercial clubs are now starting an active campaign to secure them, but will outsiders come into a tax-ridden community?

Instead of the revenue we now derive from the saloons being placed where it should be, we will have the money going out of town to mail order houses who are working for the "No License" system.

To try and give you an idea of how much beer is shipped into Rockford over the interurban routes, a local wholesaler recently asked an official of the Rockford Interurban company to give him an estimate of the shipments for a short time. His reply was that it would take a clerk six months to figure it out and it was a safe estimate that there was more per capita consumption of liquor in Rockford than in any city of its size where license existed. Yet Rockford is held up as a model for other cities to follow in voting the saloons out.

Last Monday's Rockford Register-Gazette announced that there was a near murder early Sunday morning by a drink crazed and revengeful Italian who fired a gun at his son-in-law & also said "There must have been something unusual in the air of yesterday. Twenty-three arrests were registered on the police blotter over Saturday night and Sunday and this number would have been materially increased had there been enough police on duty to answer all calls for officers."

Yet Rockford is a city without saloons. Do you want these conditions to exist here?

Now when we know that liquors are to be sold, why not regulate the sale and benefit by the income from license, and make a better Janesville instead of working for the mail order houses, brewers and distillers?
